SUMMER CAMP FOR BURN SURVIVORS

ABOUT CAMP CONNECT

Influenced by the QEII and the IWK burn units to establish a camp where adult and child survivors of burns could come together, the Nova Scotia Firefighters' Burn Treatment Society started a camp in 1998 and it has been a great success ever since.

The primary purpose of the camp is to provide an opportunity for burn survivors to come together in a relaxed atmosphere and enjoy all the fun that a camp can provide. It's also an opportunity for the campers, if they wish, to join in discussions about being a burn survivor.

Our camp is unique in that it offers programs for all ages, as well as an opportunity for children and adults to interact and share experiences. But mostly, camp is about having fun!

In 2002 a contest was held among campers to name the camp. Today it is known as Camp Connect and is held annually at Scotian Glen Camp near New Glasgow, NS. Camp is staffed by volunteers including fire fighters, hospital staff, and paramedics.
